Cool completely before stacking or storing; caramel keeps refrigerated for two weeks.
- 7

Bowl B: shape immediately while hot -- flat, rolled into a cone around a dowel, or draped over a bowl.
- 6

Make the caramel while the first Bowl A wafers cook: brown sugar, butter, syrup, water, cinnamon, and salt to soft-ball stage (234-240F), then rest 5-10 min before spreading.
- 5

Bowl A: pair two hot wafers with caramel between them (or split one wafer in half if your iron allows it), and press to seal.

Two Irons, One Fire

STEP-BY-STEP, CONDENSED

STEPS 1-4

- 1

Whisk eggs and brown sugar, then whisk in melted butter, discard, and vanilla.
- 2

Fold in flour, baking powder, baking soda, and salt just until no dry streaks remain. Rest 15-20 min.
- 3

Split the batter in half. Stir cinnamon into Bowl A; stir anise extract and extra vanilla into Bowl B.
- 4

Cook 1-2 Tbsp per wafer on a 3-4in iron. Use the ready light if present, or watch for slowed steam and deep golden color.
